

THE POST-PHYSICIST ASKS FROM HARRAN

The progress in the quantum mechanics, the Godel theory, the chaos theory, the fractal geometry, the big-bang, self-organization, unpredictability, complexity and control (premonition) is said to have changed our worldview. Some refer to these studies as postmodern science. They claim that such studies cause drastic philosophical and epistemological shifts and the determinist philosophy has conspicuously moved towards irrationalism and nihilism.

The only thing that can interrupt with this monotonous course is one's inner journey, when man can ironically rediscover himself. Who knows how many times these new beginnings have taken place throughout the unwritten history that changed in all directions?

If this travel is an irony, Harran is right port; one of the three locations that philosophy took root in. If this journey is a metaphor, then the port chosen is right once again: Harran, the port that Prophet Abraham had stopped by on his voyage from Ur to the Promised Land.

Post-physicist asks the human to return to Harran to not attempt to rebuild Babylon Tower (physics) in Mesopotamia and do not have a claim of power as "Cyborg Physicist". Post-physicist asks the human to complete the rest of their mythology, in defiant of those who claim that it is impossible to write new mythologies anymore and Post-physicist asks the human to dance all together around the fire lit by Zarathustra, Sin, the God of Moon that lives on carved into the stones remaining from his temple must have seen each one's faces turned upon their own planets.
